016 — Ping Me

Panel 1: Theo (the white tiger of the household) and Caedmon (the badger) are seated on the sofa in the living room of the house. With great enthusiasm, Theo says, “I think I’ve got a great idea to help get kids interested in computer networking at an early age, Caedmon. A new cartoon series.” Grimacing, Caedmon says, “Why do I know I’m not going to like this?”

Panel 2: Still excited by his idea, Theo asks, “Want to hear the title?” “Not especially...” Caedmon evades. Theo presses on: “My Little Proxy: Firewalls Are Magic.”

Panel 3: As the tiger grins at his own cleverness, the badger physically cringes with the pain of the pun.

Panel 4: Theo holds up his forepaw, offering it for a “fist bump.” “Ping me?” he asks? Caedmon has risen from the couch and is walking away, saying, “Not on a bet.”
