015 — Mob Psychology

- Panel 1: In the kitchen of the house, Caedmon, Ophelia, and Theo are taking groceries from shopping bags, to put them away. The badger asks, “Do we really need to stock up this much?” The skunk replies, “The hurricane is about 18 hours away and likely to head straight for us.”
- Panel 2: Putting something into a cupboard, the white tiger observes, “Most of this stuff will last for a while, so even if we don’t get hit, it won’t go to waste.” Caedmon, holding a jar in his forepaw, complains, “Hey, what’s with this off-brand peanut butter?”
- Panel 3: Theo has turned to face his housemates, explaining, “About all they had left. Talk about ‘a jungle out there.’ These people were rabid.” Ophelia asks, “They were picky about peanut butter?”
- Panel 4: The tiger has turned away, grinning, as he says, “Choosy mobs choose Jif.” The badger turns to the skunk, chuckling, “You walked into that one, Phee.”
