040 — Religious Orders

Panel 1: In the living room of the house, Lightfoot (red fox) and Caedmon (badger) are sitting on the sofa while, not far away, Theo (white tiger) sits on a large wooden-framed chair, cross-legged on the big cushion in the seat. As the tiger reads, apparently ignoring the other two, the fox asks, “You were taught in a parochial school, then?” “Yes,” the badger replies. “I spent three years with the Carmelite Sisters.”

Panel 2: The pair on the sofa are quiet, looking at Theo, who is still reading rather than reacting.

Panel 3: As Theo’s eyes pop open, as if in surprise, Caedmon is looking at his watch.

Panel 4: Moving his eyes to look at the pair on the couch, Theo says, “I knew that monks made Benedictine, but I didn’t know that nuns made diet candy.” Caedmon observes, “11.3 seconds... not his fastest time...”
